

Thought for the day: Engage your school district

If you are a parent of a child with learning and behavior disabilities or on the autism spectrum, talk to the school district and see how they can help get your child involved with Clare Woods Academy. The school is always open for tours even if you don't have a child with special needs. They love to share their work and passion with everyone – Marcus Vincent (July 21, 2018)